

Individual reflection

Ellen Widerstrand

Week 3, April 2019

What do I want to learn or understand better?

I have done a basic tutorial about React, but I want to further improve my knowledge about it. I want to learn how to write code in React and get a better understanding of how it is built up. I also want to get a better insight in how Scrum is used.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

We have been divided into three groups, in which we are meant to work on different tasks regarding coding. My goal is to help the group member I am with to get better at coding in React, as well as that he helps me. I will also help solving any queries regarding git, GitHub or Overleaf.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

This week was the first one that we started to think about the code. We have written user stories, which we have divided amongst ourselves. We also tried to estimate the user stories' effort and this week's velocity.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

I unfortunately could not be at the first meeting we had this week, but I read all notes from that meeting as well as got a short briefing from the team members during the next meeting. Everyone helped writing the team reflection, as well as making this week's user stories more clear. We also updated the social contract, which I uploaded.
