What do i want to learn and understand better?

I want to get a better understanding of git, and feel comfortable using it. Right now I'm not completely sure of how it actually works and therefore a bit afraid to do wrong and mess everything up I want to learn about business models and how you use it in a project. Depending on which project we decide to go through with, I might have to learn and work with a, for me, new platform or language which I'm excited about.

How can i help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

The course has just started and I don't know the group and their skills yet. I think we can all learn from each other but I don't know precisely what I will help out with.

what is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

So far, not so much since our group haven't start using it for the project yet. We practised scrum on this weeks exercise, I think our group worked really good together.

what is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

We have all contributed to form a social contract and we've been brainstorming ideas for the project.
