Självreflektion

Vecka 3 Nils-Martin Robeling

April 11, 2019

What do i want to learn and understand better?

I want to get better at making the scrum process more smooth, i also want to understand how our team can work together even better than we already are. The react framework is a work in progress.

How can i help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

As we just divided into teams with at least one person who has more expertise in programming, being that person my goal is to get the other team member to understand as much as possible.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

This week we started our concrete implementation of scrum which i helped with and formed ideas around. We also started our first programming sprint in which we are doing three very simple assignments.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

We all helped writing the team reflection, i also estimated how much time each user story could take and velocity. I have also worked on some of the documents, updating and adding some small things, created the repository, adding new branches and started the project with some libraries and a template.