What do i want to learn and understand better?

I want to better understand how to load and add items in javascript and add components to other components. Also get better at object oriented programming in java.

How can i help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

My programming partner got in a bit of a pickle with some code related issues. I would like to help her get a better grip of the fundamentals of coding. I would also like some help from the rest of the team with integrating the shopping cart.

What is my contribution towards the team's use of Scrum?

I kept in touch with my product owner and had some dialogue about our part of the product and came to senses about our effort for this weeks user stories.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

We have come a bit on the way of getting a working shopping cart in production, we have also started a wizard. Since we underestimated the time it would take pretty heavily, we will continue to do it for another week.
